AWARDS

The North Carolina Public Health Association grants three basic awards each year:

1. THE REYNOLDS AWARD

Limited to an individual for outstanding contributions to public health in North Carolina during the past year, for meritorious service above and beyond the call of duty.

2. THE RANKIN AWARD

For an individual in recognition of outstanding contribution to public health in North Carolina over a period of several years.

3. THE MERIT AWARD

For outstanding contributions or activities during the past year for a local health department or group. Nominations are stimulated by any and all public health workers who become aware of outstanding contributions or activities and submitted in one of two forms:

1. A formal nomination with substantiating data and information giving as complete a picture as possible.
2. A simple nomination requesting the committee to investigate and provide substantiating data.
