JAMES B. HUNT, JR.
GOVERNOR

September 2, 1980

Dear Friends:

At this annual meeting of the North Carolina Public Health Association, you will be able to reflect on some significant accomplishments of the 1970's and anticipate moving ahead to even more achievement in the next decade.

Your efforts in promoting and encouraging an awareness of the importance of public health have been very noticeable throughout North Carolina. We need to continue this progress in order to provide our people with the quality of life they should enjoy.

As Governor, I want to applaud the advances each of you has helped us make and express my support for the commitment and energy the Association continues to generate on behalf of all our citizens.

Please accept my best wishes for a successful meeting.

My warmest personal regards.

Sincerely,

Greetings:

In behalf of the Governing Council, the Program Committee, and especially the Local Arrangements Committee, I am delighted to welcome you to our 69th Annual Meeting.

To date, all but one of the essential ingredients have been applied to assure that (1) the programs will be stimulating and informative, (2) the business sessions will be productive, (3) the fellowship and social aspects will be enjoyable, and (4) the accommodations are excellent. The missing ingredient is, of course, one that each of you will have to apply yourselves. Please make generous applications.

No doubt, most of us are making personal sacrifices (financial and/or otherwise) to attend this event. No doubt, for many of us the administrator of our respective agency has had to ponder at length in order to make the decision regarding the arrangement, whether provision of leave time, travel allowance or whatever, that facilitates our presence here. In view of these circumstances and in view of the stresses of these times, I challenge you to make this meeting the very worthy occasion that it can be. The opportunity is yours!

Sincerely,
