Greetings:

In behalf of the Officers, Executive Committee, Governing Council, Sections, and especially the Local Arrangements Committee, I am pleased to welcome you to our Annual Educational Conference.

To protect and promote the health and well-being of our citizens is the common objective which unites nearly two-thousand members into the North Carolina Public Health Association.

As the highlight of our Association's activities during the year, the Annual Conference provides many opportunities for participation in a variety of functions ranging from general sessions and section meetings with presentations by outstanding speakers on scientific and public health developments thru business sessions that serve as democratic forums for the nurturing and growth of our professional organization. And social events have their own special place in encouraging the exchange of ideas and better communications between our members.

It is against a background of a distinguished history that we continue having a part in the progress of public health toward ever more challenging goals. We invite your full participation in all the events of this important occasion and we urge you to seek new perspectives to our leadership role in the human health field.

Sincerely,

Thomas F. Owens
