Presentation Center of Excellence for Training and Research Translation (Center TRT) by Nancy Aycock Nancy Aycock has worked for the UNC Center for Health Promotion and Disease Prevention for over 11 years. At HPDP, her first two special interest projects were for CDC’s WISEWOMAN Program, a cardiovascular risk reduction program for low-income, under- or uninsured women. Since 2004, she has served as the Project Manager for the Center for Training and Research Translation, a project funded by CDC’s Nutrition, Physical Activity and Obesity Prevention Program. She is the team lead for Center TRT’s translation and dissemination functions.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Introduce participants to the Center of Excellence for Training and Research Translation (Center TRT) and the supports it offers for planning and implementing evidence-based obesity prevention interventions. Center TRT is located at UNC-Chapel Hill and has been funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention since 2004 to promote and support the use of evidence in CDC-funded obesity prevention programs nationwide. • The Center’s Two Main Functions are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Training (in-person and web-based) to advance the skills of public health practitioners working in obesity prevention; and, • Disseminating intervention strategies and programs that target change at the level of individuals, communities, environments, and policy. • Please see Nancy’s PowerPoint slides for details of her excellent presentation. Highlights include the difference between evidence based intervention strategies and programs; the process for reviewing interventions; and available resources, training and technical assistance. The Center TRT acts ‘based on the best 	View the PPT slides for more information about Center TRT.
